sipping an espresso watching the morning's catch come in stepping off the train and taking a deep breath of real fresh air keeping a surfboard by the front door being able to take the kids to the beach every day in the school holidays checking your emails from a seafront cafe pulling on your walking boots and leaving your cares behind looking forward to the wander home as much as the evening's meal or show receiving a text from a friend saying the waves are really good right now playing in the park—you can see the castle from there nipping down to the harbour for fresh fish having the north york moors as your back garden stood at the bus stop on a morning with the sun rising over the sea seeing the town nestled round the bay saying 'welcome home' sipping an espresso watching the morning's catch come in stepping off the train and taking a deep breath of real fresh air keeping a surfboard by the front door being able to take the kids to the beach every day in the school holidays checking your emails from a seafront cafe pulling on your walking boots and leaving your cares behind looking forward to the wander home as much as the evening's meal or show receiving a text from a friend saying the waves are really good right now playing in the park—you can see the castle from there nipping down to the harbour for fresh fish having the north york moors as your back garden stood at the bus stop on a morning with the sun rising over the sea seeing the town nestled round the bay saying 'welcome home'
